

2019 - 20 PREA Annual Report

The Salvation Army Ft Myers Residential Reentry center

Introduction

The Prison Rape Elimination ACT OF 2003 was enacted by Congress to address the problem of sexual abuse and harassment of persons in the custody of U.S. correctional agencies. The PREA national standards were promulgated in August of 2012. These standards established nationwide consistency in practices covering the areas of detention, prevention, reduction, and punishment of prison rape in confinement facilities. The Act applies to all public and private institutions that house adult and juvenile offenders and is also relevant to community-based agencies, such as The Salvation Army Residential Reentry Center Program, operated under contract with the Federal Bureau of Prisons. This program provides re-entry services for adults transitioning from Federal prison as well as adult probationers assigned to the program as a condition of supervision.

The Salvation Army is committed to providing a safe environment for all residents assigned to the program, to include eliminating any threat of sexual abuse and harassment. The Salvation Army has adopted a zero tolerance of sexual abuse and harassment and a commitment to maintain certification as a PREA compliant program.

The program continues to train staff and educate residents in accordance with PREA standards.
