Chair: Joan Parker

Joan Parker has had a long career in luxury marketing, including over 20 years for DeBeers, followed by consulting for companies around the world. Upon moving permanently to Palm Beach from New York, after her husband passed away in 2013, she reunited with a former schoolmate from the prestigious Palm Beach Graham Eckes Preparatory School, who continues to be her companion. Having served on the Board of Fortune 500 Wolverine Worldwide, she was given the Directors Choice Award from the Women's Alliance, and later the Hall Of Fame award from the Women's Jewelry Association. During her time with DeBeers, she was frequently seen on TV shows such as The Today Show, Good Morning America, The View, Entertainment Tonight, among others.

She has spoken on diamonds to groups around Florida including The Four Arts and English-Speaking Union Palm Beach chapter. Currently living at the Palm Beach Towers, her family is close by with a daughter and grandson in Delray and a granddaughter with two girls in Ft Lauderdale.

Chair: Paula Mikus

Paula Mikus moved to Palm Beach 20 years ago with her family. After having a career in New York City at the Italian Trade Commission, she then moved to Los Angeles where she married her husband of 25 years, William Mikus. After their two daughters were born, they decided to move back east and moved to Palm Beach. "Raising my family in Palm Beach County has been a great blessing" she often tells others. As a full time mom, she volunteered at her daughters school The Rosarian Academy for many years. She loves her community and gives back whenever she can. Paula is a Realtor at The Corcoran Group in Palm Beach where she enjoys a successful real estate career. As a dual Italian and American citizen, Paula travels to Italy with her family every summer. She is a passionate tennis player and a member of the Town of Palm Beach's Tennis Team at Phipps Ocean Park.
